About the Fellowship

NOTE:

All applicants to this Fellowship Programme must also be accepted on the MSc Global Leadership and Peacebuilding at King's College London without which this fellowship grant, even if successful, will be void. Please read all the relevant information on that MSc programme at this URL <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/courses/global-leadership-and-peacebuilding-msc>.

Please also note: there is no need to apply directly for that MSc programme as this will require you pay an application fee. Instead, applicants to the Fellowship programme must first make individual successful applications to the Peace and Security Fellowship Programme at King's College London through the online portal here. If your application is successful, it will automatically be transferred onto the MSc Global Leadership and Peacebuilding programme at King's College London.

This award is available to young African women, particularly from conflict-affected contexts, interested in pursuing research, policy and practice careers in the field/s of peace, security and development. The fellowship programme is designed to expose African women to security and peacebuilding approaches using leadership studies to analyse these and, develop their expertise to generate African-led ideas and processes of change. The Fellowship aims to ground this expertise on peace and security in integrity and the pursuit of excellence.

The Fellowship is aligned with various regional and global peace and development frameworks including:

- UN Security Council Resolutions (UNSCR) 1325 and 2250 which call for the increased involvement of women and youth in peace processes.

- Sustainable Development Goals 5- Gender Equality and 16- Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions
- African Union Agenda 2063- Aspiration 4- A peaceful and secure Africa, Aspiration 6- An Africa, whose development is people-driven, relying on the potential of African people, especially its women and youth, and caring for children and Aspiration 7- Africa as a strong, united, resilient and influential global player and partner.

The fellowship programme is well-rounded and aimed at building the expertise and capacity of African women, placing them in a position to challenge mainstream and patriarchal discourse on conflict and security related matters. Upon completion of the programme, fellows are equipped with academic knowledge, research skills, mentorship training, practical experience and are linked with a network of renowned African experts in the peace, security & development field, to further launch their careers.

Programme Delivery

The Programme is delivered into two phases:

Phase 1: The first phase consists of a 12-month training programme based at King's College London. This phase will comprise of regular group mentoring sessions with renowned academics, policy analysts and practitioners. It will also include a taught Master's programme in Global Leadership and Peacebuilding, which will be taught at King's College London. For a large part of this phase, fellows will be based at King's College London. In addition, Fellows will spend brief periods at the African Leadership Centre (ALC) in Nairobi and Institute for Development Studies (IDS) at the University of Nairobi, where they will be required to undertake research and deliver research papers on peace, security and development in Africa.

Institutional Visits: During the 12-month period at King's College in London, fellows will undertake visits to academic, policy and research institutions working on issues of peace, security and development.

Phase 2: For the second phase, fellows will be attached to select partner universities or Centres of Excellence in Africa, for a period of 6 months. During this time, Fellows will work as faculty members and contribute to academic and policy research among other activities. This phase is designed to encourage the dissemination and exchange of ideas on the issues that were studied during the first phase of the programme.

Research Project: During phase 2, fellows will also be expected to conduct a research project on a key aspect of peace, security and development, and to produce a research report and a policy brief from their research. These outputs will be published and disseminated through relevant academic and policy platforms and publications. This phase of research and writing will last for 6 months.

Mentoring: During both phases, fellows will have access to the programme's network of mentors, in the form of regular group mentoring and training on key thematic issues. One-on-one mentoring sessions will also be encouraged, so as to help guide students through the programme.

Terms of the Fellowship

Application to King's College London: Successful applicants will have the status of full time MSc students in Global Leadership and Peacebuilding. It is necessary for applicants to the Fellowship Programme to make individual successful applications to the Peace & Security Fellowship Programme through the King's application portal here by 23:59 hrs EAT, 29th May 2023. Details of the MSc Global Leadership and Peacebuilding can be found at this link: <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/courses/global-leadership-and-peacebuilding-msc>

1. Student Visas: All foreign students at King's College London will be subject to the immigration rules of the UK, which can be found on the King's College London web page for obtaining student visas: <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/study/international/student-support.aspx>. The offer of a place on the programme will be subject to successful candidates obtaining a student visa. Obtaining a student visa will necessitate an UNCONDITIONAL offer for the MSc Global Leadership and Peacebuilding. Failure to obtain a visa to enter the UK automatically invalidates the offer of a place on the programme with no consequences to King's College London. Responsibility for processing and financing all visa applications rests solely with successful candidates. The implementing organizations will provide necessary documentation as needed.

2. Expectant/Nursing mothers: Given the intense nature of the programme including its short phases in different locations as well as necessary extensive travel, successful applicants that are expectant or nursing mothers while encouraged to apply, will be advised to defer their admission to the programme.
3. Medical Exam: Successful applicants will be required to undergo medical examinations at recommended venues prior to taking up their positions, to aid visa applications and to confirm your fitness for undertaking the programme.
4. Programme completion/Return to base: The programme will last a total of 18 months. During Phases 1 and 2, fellows will be expected to make full-time commitment to the programme. It is a condition that successful candidates shall return to their base or home countries at the end of the programme.

Funding

This is a fully funded¹ opportunity, not including any visa application and processing costs. Funds will be made available to cover tuition, subsistence in the UK, Kenya and Country of attachment, accommodation, research-related costs, and all travel expenses related to the programme.² However, successful applicants are expected to find their own accommodation both in the UK and in the location of their attachment institution. In the UK, successful candidates will be able to apply for University of London accommodation, and they can also make their own accommodation arrangements. Candidates are strongly advised to make all necessary accommodation arrangements well in advance of taking up their positions at King's College London. Information on KCL student accommodation can be found at this link: <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/study/accommodation/index.aspx>

Termination

The African Leadership Centre jointly with King's College London and University of Nairobi, reserves the right to terminate the conferral of a Fellowship, in the event of a breach in the Terms and Conditions of the programme.
